About Jaipur

Rajasthan's capital and largest city, Jaipur, is located in northern India. One of India's most dynamic and culturally varied cities, Jaipur is popularly known as the "Pink City" because of the prominence of pink in the city's structures. Founded by Maharaja Jai Singh II in 1727, the city is surrounded by historical landmarks, which add to its timeless appeal.

The economy of Jaipur has grown over time. Numerous small and large-scale businesses have also set up shop here, and the number looks to be expanding by the day. Jaipur is also a major exporter of diamond, gold, and gemstone jewellery in Asia. Tourism has also significantly contributed to the city's development. Jaipur residents appreciate wearing vibrant clothing and intricately crafted jewellery. The city is well-known for its textile crafts such as block printing, bandhani, zardozi, zari, gota, zari, and kinari. Folk music and dance are also prevalent in this city.

Famous for its wonderful cuisine, Dal-bati churma, pyaaz kachori, laal maas, gatte ki sabzi, and ghewar are some of the popular dishes in Jaipur. October to March is the best time to visit Jaipur because of the comfortable atmosphere in those months.

Places to visit in Jaipur

1. Nahargarh Fort

The beautiful Aravalli Range's Nahargarh Fort offers panoramic views of Jaipur. The fort was previously part of a three-point defence scheme for the city, together with the Jaigarh Fort and the Amber Fort. Today, this majestic edifice is a famous tourist destination and filming location.

2. Amber Fort

Amber Fort is among Rajasthan's most famous forts, located 12.8 kilometres from Jaipur. It was built in 1592 by Raja Man Singh. Made of red sandstone and marble, the Maatha Lake adds to the overall attractiveness of the Fort. The Fort's architecture is inspired by Muslim and Hindu influences and is a great sight to behold.

3. Bisaldeo Temple

The Bisaldeo Mandir, built alongside the Bisalpur Dam on the Banas River, is an architectural wonder. This temple, with inscriptions stretching back to the 12th century, has been designated a national monument and is thus supervised by the Indian Archaeological Survey.

4. City Palace

The City Palace is a sprawling complex with numerous halls, palaces, gardens, gateways, and spiritual sanctuaries enclosed within a huge building. This architectural landmark mixes Mughal, European, and Rajputana styles and was built to house the reigning families.

5. Govind Dev Ji Temple

Govind Dev Ji's temple is a well-known tourist destination in India. Lord Krishna is the main deity here. At the temple, various prasad, bhogs, and aartis are served seven times a day. One of the most important festivals celebrated here is Janmashtami, the birth of Krishna.

6. Hawa Mahal

The Hawa Mahal was built in Badi Choupad, Jaipur, in 1799. It is a pyramidal structure made of pink and red sandstone. The primary purpose of constructing the palace was to allow the royal family's women to see the street celebrations while keeping them hidden from the outer world.

7. Jaigarh Fort

Rebuilt by Raja Jai Singh in the 18th century, The Jaigarh Fort was initially built to protect the nearby Amer Fort. Designed by Vidyadhar, the fort was originally built as a royal family palace; it was later used to store ammunition.

8. Jal Mahal

The exquisite Jal Mahal in Jaipur appears to float on the waters of the picturesque Man Sagar Lake. It is an architectural marvel that showcases the engineering prowess of the Rajput period. Built as a hunting lodge for the Rajas of Jaipur, a big rectangular chhatra may also be found on the palace's roof.

9. Jantar Mantar

Jantar Mantar, built by Maharaja Jai Singh II in 1724, is among the king's five astronomical stations in Northern India. It was designed for naked-eye viewing of celestial positions. It belongs to the Ptolemaic positional astronomy tradition, which was widespread in many civilizations.

10. Birla Mandir

The Lakshmi Narayan Temple, formerly known as the Birla Temple, is located beneath Jaipur's Moti Dungri Fort. This temple, dedicated to Goddess Lakshmi and Lord Vishnu, is a Jaipur architectural landmark. Built of white marble, the temple differs from traditional Hindu temples with its modern design.

About Jaipur Airport

There is a duty-free shop where one can purchase items at a reduced price. These duty-free shops sell a wide variety of goods.

The airport is also well connected to different parts of the city by various modes of transportation.

About Bhopal

Bhopal, the state capital of Madhya Pradesh is located on the Malwa Plateau, north of the Vindhya. The city has a rich cultural heritage, stretching along the slopes of a sandstone mountain. Also known as the "City of Lakes," Bhopal retains its old-world appeal in its heritage quarter's lanes, which are lined with Mughal, Hindu, and Buddhist-style structures. Historical monuments and serene parks, as well as lakes, coexist with cosmopolitan areas and lively bazaars throughout the city.

Bhopal was a city in the erstwhile princely state of Bhopal, which was founded in 1723 by Dost Mohammad Khan, an Afghan explorer. The Bhopal Agency, a section of the British Central India Agency, was established in 1818 and included Bhopal, Narsinghgarh, Rajgarh, and other areas. Bhopal was a separate province until 1949 when it amalgamated with Madhya Pradesh and became the state capital.

The Upper and Lower Lakes split the city into two sections, with the old city on one side and the modern sector on the other. The New Market District, located in the middle of the city, is a flourishing commercial centre with luxury hotels, shopping centres, and restaurants. Foodies can expect to sample delectable vegetarian and non-vegetarian dishes such as dal baafala, Bhopali gosht korma, mawa bati, bhutte ki kees, and kebabs.

With hot weather all year round, the best time to visit Bhopal is from mid-March to late April and for the entire month of October.

Places to visit in Bhopal

1. Upper Lake

This lake, one of India's oldest man-made bodies of water, is thought to have been built in the 11th century by Raja Bhoj. The Upper Lake, known locally as Bada Talaab, is located near Kamla Park, which provides a tranquil setting with its lush surroundings. You can also rent a paddleboat, motorboat, or sailboat to cruise the lake's waters and appreciate the beauty of the surroundings.

2. Van Vihar National Park

This park, located near Upper Lake, is a must-see for nature lovers. Spanning over a land of 445 hectares, the Van Vihar National Park is home to a sizable population of blackbucks, sambar, nilgai, porcupines, and wild boars. The location of the park makes it an excellent choice for day excursions and extended walks. There is also a section devoted to reptiles, insects, and butterflies that can be explored by tourists.

3. Moti Masjid

This mosque was established by Sikander Jahan Begum, the former Nawab of Bhopal and one of the most enlightened women of her time. This magnificent white marble mosque is reminiscent of the Jama Masjid in Delhi. The mosque gets its name from its sparkling white front, which resembles a white pearl. It contains a large courtyard in the centre with a pool and arched, pillared corridors on three sides.

4. Bhimbetka Caves

Bhimbetka caves, a UNESCO World Heritage Site, are located around 45 kilometres southeast of Bhopal. These caves, discovered in 1957 during an excavation by VS Wakankar, date back over 30,000 years. The interiors of the caverns include over 500 paintings that are similar to those found at Lascaux in France and Kakadu National Park in Australia. These paintings portray scenes of hunting, elephant riding, horseback riding, and dancing, among other things.

5. Sanchi Stupa

This well-preserved stupa at Sanchi, 48 kilometres northeast of Bhopal, is one of India's oldest stone constructions. It was constructed during the reign of Mauryan Emperor Ashoka in the third century BCE to disseminate Buddhism throughout the nation. The stupa's gigantic dome houses a central chamber containing the Buddha's remains.

6. Shaukat Mahal

This magnificent palace, located at the entrance to the Chowk area, is one of the city's most popular attractions. The building, which combines Western and Asian architectural influences, was built during the reign of Sikander Begum in the 19th century. The tall Sadar Manzil, originally serving as the Hall of Public Audience, stands adjacent to the Shaukat Mahal.

7. Udayagiri Caves

These caverns, located 57 kilometres northeast of Bhopal in the Vidisha district, are a collection of 20 Gupta-era temples and monasteries excavated from a stony slope. The caves, which date from the early fifth century CE, are a magnificent example of Gupta dynasty art. There are additional rock shelters, fortifications, and water systems at the site. Tourists can climb the slope to the top for panoramic views of the surrounding hills and valleys.

8. Lakshmi Narayan Temple

This temple, perched above the Arera Hills, is devoted to Goddess Lakshmi and Lord Vishnu, her consort. It also houses idols of Lord Shiva and Goddess Parvati and is known locally as Birla Mandir. Even people who are not strictly religious can take some time to enjoy the temple's panoramic views of the old city region.

9. Lower Lake

The lower lake, or “Chhota Talab”, a Ramsar site, is separated from the Upper Lake by a bridge known as Pul Pukhta. This lake dates back to the 11th century and is an important source of potable water for the city. The Lower Lake is about 5 kilometres from the Bhopal bus stand and is a popular tourist destination.

10. Bhojpur Temple

The Bhojpur Temple, constructed by Raja Bhoj in the eleventh century, is a Shiva mandir in the Madhya Pradesh hamlet of Bhojpur. A 7.5-foot-tall Shiva lingam is on exhibit and draws a considerable amount of tourists.

About Bhopal Airport

Bhopal Airport (IATA code: BHO), formerly known as Raja Bhoj Airport, is located about 15 kilometres northwest of the city centre. The airport honours the name of Raja Bhoj of the Paramara Dynasty. In 2013, Bhopal Airport was the first in the state to develop a solar plant, involving the use of solar electricity to power the airport's utility grid system. The airport is served by Air India and IndiGo, which fly to cities throughout India, including Mumbai, Delhi, Ahmedabad, and Jammu.

The airport has a single terminal for both domestic and international traffic. The airport provides a variety of amenities for passengers' convenience, including complimentary baggage trolleys, medical assistance, child care rooms, vehicle rental, a tourist information centre, pre-paid taxi counters, a lost and found baggage desk, and wheelchairs for the elderly and differently-abled. It also boasts large, and well-kept travel lounges. There are also numerous restaurants and retail outlets on-site.

Visitors can take a private cab from the terminal to the bus station, which is approximately 13 kilometres from the airport, or to the railway station, which is approximately 19 kilometres from the airport. From the airport, you may also rent a car.
